This means that any time new EC2 instances are needed, the AutoScaling Group should automatically start them. However, the AutoScaling Group also has a security group that has http access to only localhost, so I cannot access my EC2 instances using or in my browser. Is there a way to solve this issue? I would like my EC2 instances to be able to connect to an API (which is hosted in the EC2 instance itself) and use their authentication tokens. If this is not possible, could my EC2 instances be able to connect to my API server using HTTP or HTTPS? A: It sounds like you need VPC. So, add a few IP addresses to your Security Group to allow

As the 11th most informative blog on the planet, I have a seared memory of throwing my Time 2006 Man of the Year Award over the railing at Time Warner Center. Justice. Only Justice Shall Thou Pursue Wednesday, May 11, 2007 The White House used Meet Your Press to talk up the administration's efforts on the economy. One of the points that they made was that "In contrast to what happened in Europe, the United States is responding to this new global economic environment by being the innovative leader." This statement only reeks of a disinfo campaign. Sure this "new global economic environment" has been exploited by a few countries, no doubt, but as we all know, the US economy is doing pretty damn good at the moment. The stats aren't great, but they are at the highest level in 20 years. National unemployment fell to 4.5 percent in March 2007. The total number of employed persons increased by 1.9 million in the last 12 months. Inflation is currently running below 2 percent. US exports were running at a pretty healthy pace at the time this MTP interview was broadcast. And while we won't get the true picture until the end of the year, the truth is the Dow Jones Industrial Average hit 14200 on May 6th. So why would the White House be trying to talk up how the US is more "innovative"? I suspect they are going to try to spin this one into another $300 billion stimulus package for the states. But I'd like to know if there is any truth to the statement made by this administration.An old Mexican proverb states, "When in Rome, Do As Romans Do". In our case it is a global business traveler visiting a city that knows a good "Wonton". All are part of TNT's latest summer movie lineup, which will feature 11 films from the world's major studios, the cable network announced Thursday. "The Complete Story of Robin Williams" is the centerpiece of the summer lineup, debuting with a two-hour documentary marathon that will air in May on TNT and distributed by Paramount TV. Then on May 12, the network will air "Bad 25," a 10-part series about the 25 biggest scandals that upset the celebrity status quo during the mid-1950s. Next up, "Hotel for Dogs" (May 26), which stars Will Ferrell as a hotel concierge to a cadre of room service dogs, who don't let him forget it. Then there is "Legend" (June 2) with Dwayne Johnson and Kevin Hart as two former criminals who land jobs as semi-professional basketball players for an NBA team that is about to be relocated to Oklahoma City. That will be followed by "All Eyez on Me" (June 9) with artist and actor Tupac Shakur in a cameo as a courier, and "The Last Stand," (June 16), with Mel Gibson as a former rodeo cowboy who must protect his home while also figuring out how he would
